THE 73RD ANNIVERSARY OF OUR QUEEN'S BIRTH.

On Tuesday last we commemorated the 73rd birthday of Queen Victoria.
She has now entered upon the 74th year of her age and next month will enter upon the 86th of her reign.

In the history of the Kingdom her reign is the longest, with but two exceptions—Henry III and George III.
Our earnest hope is she may live to exceed the greatest of these.

But her present old age will scarce afford foundation for the hope. She is now aged and gray. She has had much family affliction but has borne all with a calmness, resignation and fortitude that must meet with the admiration of her loving subjects throughout her vast domains.

The great majority of Canadians are patriotic and love monarchical institutions and the Queen who reigns over them. They love to keep the birthday of their Queen. But as a contemporary states:—

"Soon there will no longer be a Twenty-fourth, it will disappear from the calendar of our red-letter days and become meaningless and forgotten, and the Ninth of November will take its place. Instead of the hearty and cheerful 'God Save the Queen' in the opening days of spring, we shall be singing 'God save the King,' with equal loyalty and devotion no doubt, but never with the same gladness, in the sombre and dying days of the fall.
This is what is coming in a few short years at most, for queens are like beggars in one thing—they die; nor can all the power of their millions of subjects save them, or prolong their life by even the hundredth part of one poor day."

But as we celebrate, each in his own way, the seventy-third anniversary of Victoria's birth, we can look back over the years of her life and reflect with pride and thankfulness that a noble woman has been Queen of that empire which is the greatest the world has ever seen, and of which Canada and Canadians form no inconsiderable part.
Monarchism has not been discredited in her person; on the contrary, it has been adorned and popularized, and in these democratic days this is the strongest possible testimony to her character both as woman and Queen."

QUEBEC LEGISLATURE.

Nineteen for, 44 against, was the vote taken Wednesday, May 18th after the debate on the bill introduced in the Assembly by Mr. Morris (Conservative), seconded by Mr. Hackett (Conservative), proposing the abolition of the Legislative Council. The arguments in favor of the abolition were now that the Legislative Council was now a merely useless branch of the province's political machinery, and that its abolition was necessary in the interests of economy. The Opposition to a man supported the measure, though while in power the idea of the council's abolition seemed never to have occurred to them. The Ministers all opposed it, and only three of the Ministerial members voted for the abolition of the branch of the Legislature to which the Premier belongs.

J. J. C. ABBOTT, CANADA'S PRE-MIER, AND OLIVER MOWAT, ONTARIO'S PREMIER, ARE RAISED TO THE
KNIGHTHOOD.

It is customary on the Birthday of the sovereign of Great Britain to make public the honors bestowed on favored subjects.

Among the other recipients of birthday honors are the Canadian Premier, J. J. C. Abbott, and the Ontario premier and attorney-general, Oliver Mowat, who have been made Knights Commander of the order of St. Michael, and St. George. Dr. Dawson of the Behring Sea commission, has been made a companion of the same order.

THE GRAND OLD MAN ON THE IRISH BILL.

Mr. Gladstone with the vigor almost of youth arose in the House of Commons on the 24th, to speak against the Local Government Bill for Ireland.

His voice was sonorous and his figure erect. He endeavored to read a part of his speech but he was unable to see distinctly and after faltering and stumbling for a moment he was compelled to request John Morley to read his notes.

His remarks were delivered with fire and eloquence, and the Liberals and Nationalists cheered him at every point he scored.

He said that the Bill stamped Ireland and Irishmen with the most ignominious inequality, as compared with Great Britain. The Bill falsified even the miserable contracted felicity of solemn pledges, whereby the present majority in parliament obtained the people's commission in 1886. It was a Bill, the promoters of which, found it expedient to press upon the acceptance of the people of Ireland by menacing them with the horrors of civil war if they should dare to refuse the measure thus forced upon them. "What," exclaimed Mr. Gladstone, "was Lord Salisbury's speech at Convent Garden but an incitement to civil war? In the whole domain of political literature it would be impossible to find an utterance displaying more reckless contempt for the dictates of wisdom, prudence and sagacity. No self-respecting man could serve on the Irish county councils, in view of the monstrous restrictions on his liberty of action. To sum up, the bill was branded in every clause with the stamp of inequality."

Everything good in previous legislation has been left out; everything bad inserted. "The Bill," Mr. Gladstone added, "embodied the refusal of political legislation. It was a measure no self-respecting nation could accept."

Continuing Mr. Gladstone said: "It is remarkable that we now are debating a measure in regard to which we have no means of forming a judgement whether it is seriously intended to be passed into a law. This Bill is the last lingering representative of numerous promises of local government for Ireland on a voting of full equality with Britain."

"Every defect of local self-government in Great Britain," he said, "has been embodied in this bill, magnified and exaggerated and stripped of every safeguard that might curtail its mischief. This is the bill offered to our sister country as the final boon of a generous government, to magnify their adequate sense of Irish wants and their disposition to outbid the Nationalists home rule by offering Ireland something more beneficial.
The bill has conferred great obligation upon the Liberal party. It tends to clear the issue before the country. It gives the people the power of measuring exactly the value of those splendid promises of 1886. If, with such evidence as this before them, they allow themselves to be misled again, it will be their own fault. But they will not be misled. (Cheers and cries of "hear, hear.") They have arrived at a tolerably fair estimate of this method of proceeding already and if anything were wanted to complete their knowledge, this Bill will supply it to them.
This measure is indelibly marked from end to end with the stamp of inequality adverse to Ireland. Is this an old or a new question? Go back to the period of the union of the two countries and the agreement then used by the opponents of the union. They entreated the ruling party not to do away with ancient historical institutions, not to sacrifice national life, but to grant some scope and freedom. The more candid supporters of the union replied: 'It is true that you are losing much in sacrificing your parliament and in surrendering your traditions—you are losing much which you dearly cherish to your hearts' core, but only look at the numerous advantages you will obtain. You are going to obtain a position in which you will have inrevocably, under the stamp and seal of the greatest sonnetry in the world, absolute equality of laws with Great Britain. Equality of laws was the sole essence of the speeches by them.

It was, he thought, adequate compensation tendered to Ireland for her sacrifice. Where is that equality to-day?
How is the expression in the Bill before us? Are we to say that Ireland is wrong in rejecting this Bill? The stamp of equality is the brand of degradation. If Ireland were capable of attempting, as a redemption of the pledges so frequently made here, a measure tending to stamp, she would be unworthy of the high hopes and aspirations which she has so long cherished; unworthy of the great men who have led her in times of adversity; unworthy of that happier, better destiny which, we trust and believe, and, so far as the future is open, are convinced and know she is about to accomplish." Despite the eloquence of the veteran statesman, the bill passed its 2nd reading by a vote of 339 to 247.

LAND GUIDES TO BE FURNISH-ED IN THE NORTH WEST.

In answer apparently to the numerous complaints made by incoming settlers the Interior Department has issued instructions to its agents in Manitoba and the Northwest authorizing them to employ land guides when necessary to assist parties of intending settlers in locating lands, or for any special purpose connected with immigration. Guides are required when practicable to speak the language of the party placed under their guidance and must be well acquainted with the Dominion lands survey system. The employment is of course temporary and terminates when all necessary and reasonable assistance has been rendered to the party of settlers in charge of a guide. It is provided, moreover, that in the event of an unusually large influx of settlers necessitating the formation of more than one party of land hunters at a time the agent may employ as many guides as may be absolutely necessary for locating such parties. It is also the intention to provide every land agency with township plans showing every quarter section of government land that has been taken up, disclosing at a glance all sections and quarter sections that are open for application.

IMPERIAL FEDERATION

Canada's Fiscal Relations with England Discussed.

Montreal, May 23.—A cable to the Star from London, on Tuesday says: Canada's fiscal relations with England were sagely discussed at a large meeting of the sixty branch of the Imperial Federation League today, and a committee was authorized to submit an outline of a scheme of commercial union of the empire, based as nearly as practicable upon free trade throughout the empire.

Several leading men of the league urged that Canada cease attention to the United States, and lower her tariff against England. They declared that Lord Salisbury's speech voiced England's wish to give the colonies favored treatment.

Sir Charles Tupper made an impassioned speech. He declared he had high authority for the statement that the United States intended by the McKinley tariff to hamper and break down the farmer of Canada and compel Canada to enter the Union. England had tried conciliation too long. She would regain means of retrieving her favor by adopting a preferential tariff.

The lecturer was fresh from a tour in which he seems to have taken in all that is most beautiful and interesting in a land where all is beauty and where every object has an interest.

The Times joins with his many friends in wishing him prosperity in his new home.

Received Improvements.

The Brunswick Hotel which has been undergoing extensive alterations and improvements is now completed. The dining hall having been completely remodeled, has a very striking appearance. The bar room also has received some improvements, a new billiard table having been placed therein, which adds to the luxuries of the house. Two new girls arrived on Wednesday, a cook and a waiter. The house is now one of the best in the west.

Be mistaken Day.

A programme of sports is now being arranged by a committee.

A large sum has already been contributed for prizes for different athletic sports, including Base Ball, Lawn Tennis, Running and Jumping.

No pains are being spared to make the celebration of this natal day of our Dominion an event long to be remembered in the annals of Moose Jaw.

Life and Thought.

A most interesting letter appears in the Winnipeg Free Press on the above subject, by Rev. Dr. McLean, of Moose Jaw. We would desire here to give a synopsis of the same, but fear that we could not do justice to the same in a brief reference to its contents so we will not attempt to do so. If we had space at our disposal, we would publish it in full.

Loss by Prairie Fire.

On Monday afternoon several farmers North of here suffered considerably from a severe prairie fire. The fire apparently started some miles north-east of the town, and travelled at such speed that the following parties were unable to save the following property, viz:—Mr. Thomas Falkner, loss his stable and implement shed, new binder, 80 bushels of seed wheat, 200 bushels of oats and 20 tons of hay. Mr. Falkner had the knuckles of his right hand severely burnt while endeavoring to save some of his property. Mr. John Edwards, loss his stable. Mr. John Winn loss his stable and 250 bushels of wheat. Mr. Wm. Hannah loss the guano on his farm and one-half miles south-east of here, in the fire of Saturday last. Considerable other damage has been done in the neighborhood, but, as yet, we have not learned the particulars.

The Queen's Birthday.

This day passed off very quietly. No regular programme of sports was arranged.

The shops were closed and the town had the appearance of Sunday, save that a few flags were displayed from some of the residences, a game of base ball was played at one spot, several games of lawn tennis in another, and a crowd might be seen throwing balls at some miniature wooden babies.

The small boy was in high spirits, as he exploded the customary fire crackers in honor of his Queen. In the evening a social mentioned elsewhere, was held in Campbell's Hall. Beyond this the day passed off quietly.

Methodist Social.

The Methodist Christian Endeavor gave a pleasing entertainment in Campbell's Hall, on the evening of the Queen's Birthday. A large number sat down to tea, at the close of which the following programme was rendered, much to the delight of the audience: Opening anthem by the choir; chairman's address by J. E. Annable; duet "Wandering Home," Miss Grayson and Mrs. Neelands; solo "The Gipsy's Warning," Miss Pounder; duet "The Swallow's Flight," Mrs. Bogue and Mrs. Wilcox; reading "Dried Apple Pie," J. E. Annable; solo "The Bridge," Mr. Hogg; quartette "Speed Away," address, Dr. McLean; anthem "Hallelujah for the Cross," choir. Dr. McLean's address was on "A Tenderfoot from Home," being some of his experiences when in Britain. He described in detail in an interesting manner the Coronation Chairs in Westminster Abby, specially the one now used, the coronation of the Kings of Scotland, which has the old coronation stone, brought from Stone imbedded in it. This stone has a tradition which says that it is the stone which Jacob used for a pillow in his famous dream on the desert. It was brought to Ireland by Jeremiah, and then taken to Scotland. A vivid description was given of a musical performance in the Albert Hall, when nine thousand people were present. A visit to City Road Chapel, the Miffrane Mission House, Fetter Lane, an account of the Sewage System of the Great Metropolis and a criticism of the English Educational System completed a very effective address.

North American Life Assurance Company. Mr. Seymour Green has accepted the agency of this company for the Moose Jaw District.

This company is one of the best in Canada, the late Hon. Alexander Mackenzie having been its President. It does a large business.

Salvation Army Officers.

The Captain and other officers of the Salvation Army who have been doing good in our midst departed on the evening of the 25th for Brandon. Before doing so, they were engaged for hours bidding adieu to their many friends—and they had many, for during their stay in our midst, they were admired and respected for lack of aggressiveness and womanly learning. Though zealous in their cause, they were not aggressive. We wish them success in their new field of labor. We understand that two new officers arrived yesterday evening to supply their place.

Y. P. S. C. E. Social.

A pleasant time was spent in the Presbyterian Church, on Wednesday evening, the occasion being the annual public social of the Y. P. S. C. E. A profusion of flowers tastefully arranged adorned the platform, and an excellent programme, musical and literary, was creditably rendered. We are only sorry that so fine a programme was heard by so small an audience. "Rock of Ages," a duet by Mrs. Chalmers and Mr. Potter, also the quartette "Bright Sparkles from the Church Yard," were worthy of highest praise; Mr. Lang sang, "The Flag of Old England"; Mr. Hogg, who is becoming a favorite among the concert-goers of Moose Jaw, sang "Kathleen Mavourneen," so pleasingly that the audience insisted on an encore to which request he replied with "The Two Lovers," and afterwards gracefully filled an unavoidable vacancy in the programme with "Longfellow's Bridge"; "As hamed of Jesus," by Miss McMillan and "Rocked in the Cradle of the Deep," by Mr. Potter were well suited to the respective voices and happily rendered; Mr. McDonald's humorous reading, setting forth the adventures of a hungry son of Erin, shipwrecked on the foreign shore of France, and with limited acquaintance of "la belle langue," received well merited applause. After refreshments had been served, the audience sang the National Anthem and was dismissed with the benediction. The Rev. Mr. Clay occupied the chair throughout the evening.

NOTICE—If the party who borrowed a rifle last fall from the undersigned wishes to have the use of it for next fall's shooting, he will confer a favor by leaving it at the Post office in order that it may be cleaned and placed in proper shape.
